This poster depicts the rich natural and cultural heritage of Anaho Island National Wildlife Refuge. The poster was designed to commemorate the 100th anniversary of this area being designated a National Wildlife Refuge in September 1913 by President Woodrow Wilson. Anaho Island NWR, which lies within the Pyramid Lake Paiute Tribal reservation, is closed to all public access to protect sensitive habitat for colonial nesting birds such as the American White Pelican.

Rolled posters available at Stillwater NWRC office in Fallon during regular hours, or at the Pyramid Lake Paiute Museum and Visitor Center in Nixon, NV.

(Sorry, posters can not be mailed.)

Original poster artwork created by former USFWS employee Miriam Morrill.
